

Darrell Smith 2023 Bio

Darrell Smith is a self-employed farmer, raising beef cattle, hay, and tobacco. He is also a licensed auctioneer in the states of Indiana and Kentucky. Smith and his wife, Michelle, are residents of Dow Ridge Road, Madison, in Milton Township, and are parents of one daughter and two sons.

For over 38 years, Smith has served as a director for Southeastern Indiana REMC. He is a credentialed cooperative director and has received his board leadership certification. He served on the REMC executive board, as president for 4 years, as vice president for 2 years, and as secretary for 19 years.

He is currently the president of the Macedonia Cemetery Association and a past board member of the Indiana Tobacco Growers Association, Jefferson County Extension Ag Council, and the Farm Credit Services advisory board. He and his family attend the Macedonia Baptist Church.

Smith believes that the number one priority of any director should be to serve the cooperative and its members to the best of his or her ability and to devote the time it takes to do this successfully.
